ABSTRACT
Wir als Studiengruppe Informationsdesign (SI), wurden von der Projektanfrage „Weltoffene Hochschule?“ erreicht, da sich an verschiedenen Stellen der BURG Beobachtungen und Diskussionen rund um die Frage der Willkommenskultur und der Probleme Studierender gehäuft hatten. Als Reaktion darauf begannen wir zu untersuchen, wie wir uns dieser komplexen Thematik nähern können, wobei wir uns auf die Dimension der Internationalität konzentrierten. Dies führte dazu, dass wir verschiedene Untergruppen bildeten, die jeweils einen eigenen Blickwinkel auf die Frage einnahmen, wie unsere institutionellen und sozialen Strukturen in Frage gestellt werden können.

Der aktuelle Arbeitsstand umfasst eine Sensibilisierungs-Plakatserie, die auf Gesprächen mit internationalen Studierenden basiert ist, eine Vokabel Publikation, die bei der Überwindung der auftretenden Sprachbarriere hilft, eine Workshop-Reihe für Studierende, um neue Verbindungen zu knüpfen, raumspezifische Interventionen, und eine Publikation, die unsere Projekte archivarisch miteinander verbindet und unsere Arbeit dokumentiert, in der Hoffnung, dass wir in Zukunft darauf aufbauen können.

Die Dringlichkeit dieser Fragen hat sich durch die jüngsten Entwicklungen an unserer Hochschule stark verschärft. Wir fordern, dass diese Fragen gemeinsam von allen Mitgliedern unserer Schule ernsthaft angegangen werden und dass diese Impulse in strukturelle Veränderungen umgewandelt werden.

We, the students of Studiengruppe Informationsdesign (SI), received the project request Weltoffene Hochschule? because observations and discussions around the question of 'Willkommenskultur' and struggles of students had culminated at different institutions of Burg. In response to this, we started to investigate how this complex topic can be approached, with a focus on the dimension of internationality. This led us to build different subgroups, each taking their own angle at the question of how our institutional and social structures can be questioned.

The result of this is an awareness poster series based on conversations with international students, a vocabulary publication to assist them with the language barrier, a workshop series for students to form new connections, room specific interventions, and a publication that binds all projects together and documents our work with the hope of building onto it in the future.

The urgency of these questions has only increased with the recent developments at our school. We demand these issues to be addressed seriously by all members of our school, and for the current momentum to be transformed into structural change.

Core Reflection and Starting Points

The project „Weltoffene Hochschule“ (Open-minded University) deals with researching and questioning university structures. Our group is primarily concerned with the position and perspective of international students and people from non-German-speaking countries. It is primarily about making things visible, bringing students together and recognising, questioning and changing barriers. This also includes wayfinding and accessibility on campus and online.

Methods and Designpractice

In order to gain access to the topic, our working group focuses on conversations from different perspectives, surveys and interventions.

For a documentary level, we have decided on a photo documentation and the creation of a publication. Our group is divided into different working areas that deal with the following methods and choose them as design practice within the framework of the project:

- Wayfinding with graphic elements, playing on the information board in front of the NLG
- Creating a form fan with important design terms for (international) students
- Photo documentation and creating a publication with it
- 2. part of the publication should be a typographical summary of our project.
- Video documentation of the Wayfinding campaign
- Creation of a radio show/podcast with voices of people from the campus

At this stage, these are possible ideas of design practice that we can/want to apply. These need to be constantly adapted to the state of the project and our time capacities.

Result-orientation

As this is a newly started project of the SI, our focus is to get first access to the project and the ideas. There are already materials and projects that have been developed by previous students that we can draw on.

Together with our project partners, we aim to create a sustainable intervention and print media that students in the following semesters will ideally benefit from. In addition, we want to gain new experience in our design practice and in working on a semester project.

Weltoffene Hochschule WORKSHOP SERIES

Bielefeld
Wintersemester 2022/23

Current status

The first workshop called „Human Flags“ took place on 23rd November 2023 at „KrimzKrams“, a collective space open to the public located in the south of Halle. During the workshop the students created their own personal flags based on individual places they imagined during a guided journey through their dreams. Each participant sewed a flag carrying their story using various second-hand materials offered by „Krimz-Krams“.

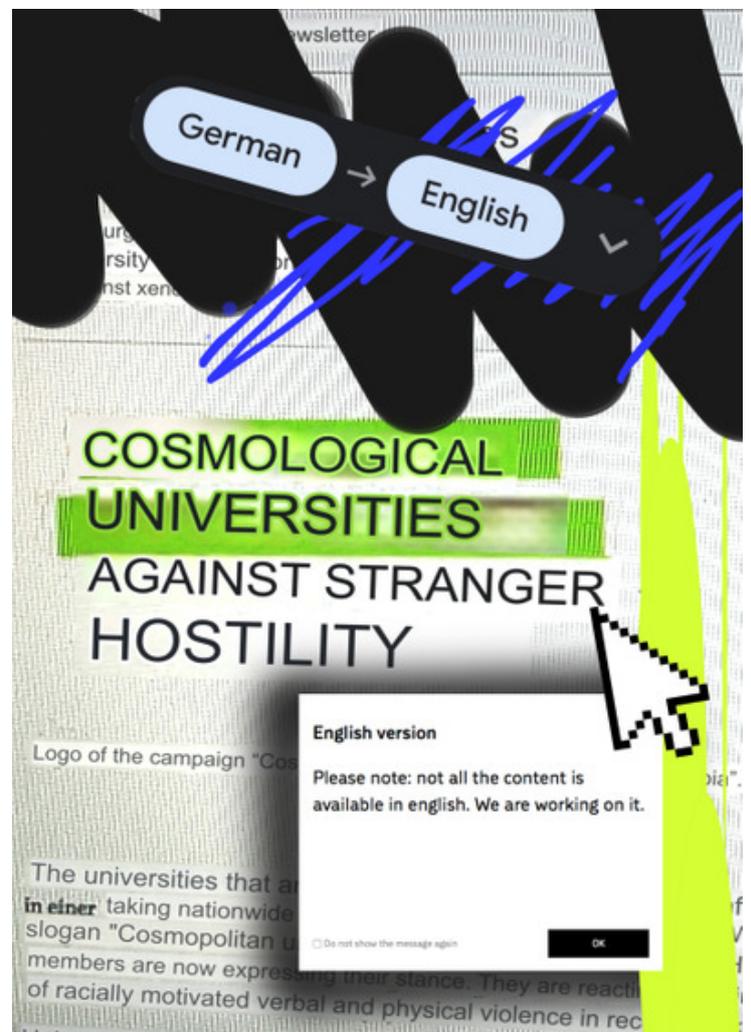

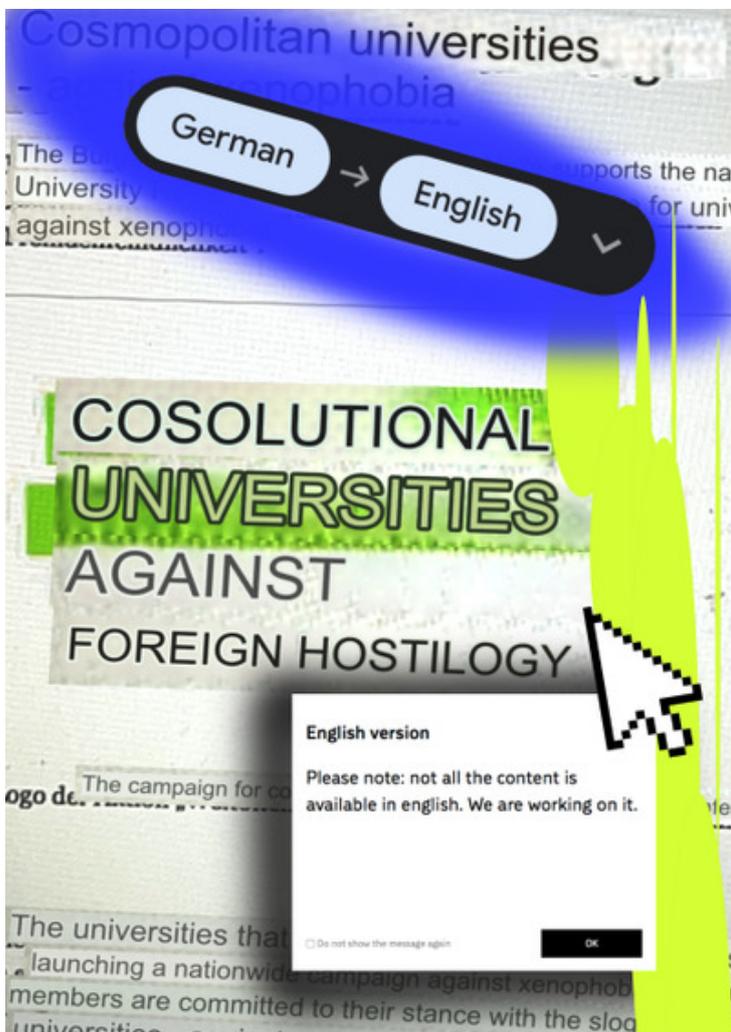

By bringing people together in a warm, relaxed, cosy atmosphere where stories like this can be shared through different forms of media we want to imagine utopias, enforce a sense of community and strengthen the strings of connection of people acting within BURO, ideally leading to more discussion and understanding about, awareness towards and collective action against oppressive structures within our school.

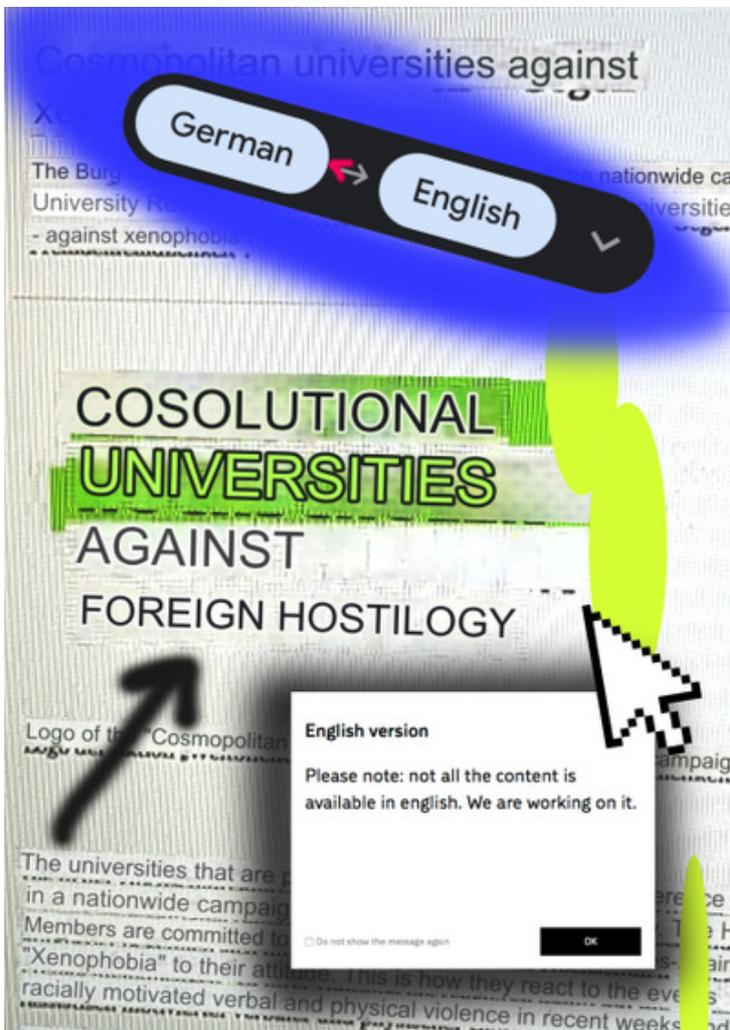

We planned the second workshop at Lila Drache on the 18th of January from 5.30pm - 9pm. We are going to speak about our individual dream places and arrive to describe common dream place, map it out, record a story about it and write down rules for it.

We focused also on the final documentation that will take the shape of a table cloth. It includes an instruction/recipe on how to host workshops like we did in the future. Moreover, it collects the visual material (scanned flags, map, rules, questions, written experiences we made, quotes from the participants, photographs, ...). It serves as a tool to hand over this workshop format and to continue it in the future.

Project description and design methods

Within the broad theme of „Weltoffene Hochschule?“ and due to a lack of awareness and exchange about the harsh experiences international students make within BURIG, a series of workshops is being developed serving as safe spaces for students to get to know each other promoting a network of new contacts. Participants are encouraged to reflect on their personality, heritage and culture and how these topics intersect within the group, our university, the city of Halle and the world. During these events, creative crafting serves as a medium for connection. We hope to open up conversation and exchange and thus motivate to empathize with each other experiencing our daily surroundings in different ways.

WORKSHOP DEVELOPMENT:

1. Introduction round: name, pronounce, how you feel related to food?
2. Close your eyes.
3. Think about your dream place, which colour does it have? Which textures? Shapes? Sizes? Smell? Who is there with you in your dream world?
4. Write it down
5. Power Point: normal uses of flags, designed flags
6. Instructions: A2 frame (420x594), choose fabric you wanna use, have fun with shapes, you can attach the pieces with glue, stapler, sewing, laces.
7. Everyone presents their flag
8. Final Restitution/round: remember them that at the end we'll sew everything together. Let's think about which will be the following meaning of the big flag. We're planning a next meeting...
9. Final Picture

TO DO:

1. Make PowerPoint
2. Make introduction cards
3. Cut fabric
4. Buy snacks
5. Stapler
6. camera+videocamera
7. Insta post on SI and KrimzKrams

- typography part: collected interviews and research we did on the project this semester
- kornflächer with vocabulary by Gusi, Magdi, Chiara
- maybe collected work from the 1st year, they worked on the same topic as we did
- posters from the billboard by Paul, Arto and Hana
- material and documentation from the intercultural Nischen event Chiara and Magdi organized with photos, posters, recipes etc.

International office -> internationalization

In international university there are more people who work on the topic
 - @BURG just 2 people who deal with the topics and tasks

- support depends on the priorities of the federal state (Saxony Anhalt is e.g. different than Berlin)

How many international students apply to Burg and how many (rough percentage) are accepted?

- information from the matriculation institution and the administration
- 177 full time international, 90 exchange
- around 50-60 apply per year, approx 85% get accepted, success rate is higher
- Caused by space
- It has to be balanced compared to the universities Burg students are going to
- 50 communication design applies, most favored design studies
- Thing of profit
- Other departments got a fixed number of people who get accepted
- Every second year partnerships have to be updated
- Partnership and scholarship
- BURG has a huge exchange network
- this year 30 new exchange students
